SUPPORT STAFF

Carol Sprague
Senior Associate Athletic Director

Carol Sprague has been at the forefront of many initiatives and positive developments during her University of Pittsburgh career which spans three decades of service.

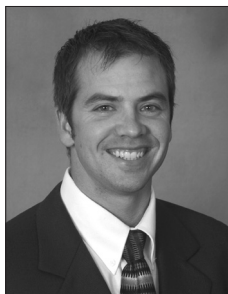

As Senior Associate Athletic Director, Sprague is responsible for capital project management and facilities and event operations management and serves as sport administrator for women's basketball, volleyball, gymnastics and wrestling. Sprague worked as the athletic department's project manager during the planning and construction of the Petersen Events Center. She also oversaw the department's move from Pitt Stadium and back to the Petersen Events Center. Her responsibilities included researching numerous aspects of the arena to determine everything from large screen video board capabilities and manufacturers to the location of telephone outlets. She also provided the architects and contractors with information about athletic and spectator functionality of many areas of the building. Sprague was instrumental in the planning and construction of new locker rooms, training rooms and an equipment complex in the Fitzgerald Field House. Last year, Sprague contributed to the design and construction of both the Olympic sports weight room and new wrestling facility.

In 2004, Sprague completed five years of service on the prestigious NCAA Women's Basketball Committee. This year she was instrumental in bringing the First and Second Rounds of the 2007 NCAA Division I Women's Basketball Championships to the Petersen Events Center.

In June 2004, Sprague was elected to serve on the Executive Board of the National Association of Collegiate Athletic Directors (NACDA). She has also been a member of the NCAA Management Council, the NCAA Council, the NCAA Administrative Committee, the NCAA Administrative Review Committee, the NCAA Playing and Practice Sessions Committee and various Big East Conference administrative and sports committees.

Sprague began her career at Pittsburgh in 1974 as an assistant swimming coach. Since that time she has held a variety of positions including coordinator of student affairs for student-athletes, assistant athletics director for women's sports and associate athletics director for non-revenue sports.

A graduate of Slippery Rock University, Sprague earned her bachelor's degree in health and physical education in 1971 and a Master of Science degree in 1974. A member of the Rockets' swimming team, she was a national championship qualifier and is a member of the Western Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame after an illustrious career as a player and coach for the Pittsburgh Debs softball team.

Ted Dworek
Assistant Strength and Conditioning Coach

Ted Dworek is in his third season as a strength and conditioning coach for Pitt's women's gymnastic team. Dworek also works with men and women's soccer, track and field, swimming, and tennis at the University.

Dworek, a Pittsburgh native, attended Indiana University of Pennsylvania where he earned his bachelor's degree in sports medicine. During that time, he worked with football, softball, women's soccer and women's field hockey. Upon graduation from IUP Dworek opened his own personal training business within the Pittsburgh area and also worked for Highmark BlueCross BlueShield as a fitness consultant. He then continued his education at the University of Pittsburgh earning a master's degree in exercise physiology.

Dworek belongs to such organizations as National Strength and Conditioning Association, Collegiate Strength and Conditioning Coaches Association, American College of Sports Medicine and USA Weightlifting. He looks forward to being part of the growth and accomplishments of the Pittsburgh Panthers.

Ted and his wife Elaine, who is also a Pitt graduate, got married last August. They will reside in South Park.

Jan McMannis
Academic Counselor

Jan McMannis has been a key contributor to the women's gymnastics team at Pitt. She has helped four Panthers to earn four NACGC/W Scholastic All-American honors and nine gymnasts to become four-time EAGL All-Academic Team members. McMannis is also the coordinator of the Academic Support Services for Student-Athletes (ASSSA) Writing Lab in addition to working with freshmen football players.

McMannis began her career at the University's ASSSA in 1990 and has over 30 years of experience working with college freshmen who are making the transition from high school to college. She has taught college-level courses in reading and study skills as well as English composition.

She earned her bachelor's degree in English from Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash. and her master's degree in English from Western Washington University. She additionally received her Reading Specialist Certification from Pitt.

A native of southern California, McMannis is married to independent film-maker Tony Buba, a long-time resident of Braddock, Pa.

2007 SEASON OUTLOOK

One Team. One Dream. That's the mantra of the 2007 Pitt squad as they approach the season with a new work ethic and winning mentality. A successful off-season has brought the team closer and made workouts more competitive with every gymnast vying for a spot on each event. This year, the team is returning three All-EAGL selections and has one of its top recruiting classes to date.

"Not only are our incoming people getting better, but the demands being put on the athletes have increased," said Head Coach Debbie Yohman. "It's not just the athletes but our level of expectations for them. We want the kids to think competitively. It's not good enough to try your hardest and still have a fall on the beam. You have to do better than that. If doesn't count just because you want to do it. You have to put in the homework, preparation and time. You have to have a passion"

Leading the team in 2007 will be senior co-captains Andrea Arlotta and Jessica Garber. Arlotta was a unanimous All-EAGL selection in the all-around last season, and Garber was a key contributor as a vault, beam and floor specialist.

"Dre and Jess are doing a great job, obviously as team captains, but also as team leaders," said Yohman. "What we have told the kids and what we are trying to get them to internalize, is that we are not raising the bar. The bar has already been raised. And if they are not up to the level of our expectations, they are going to get left behind. Dre and Jess have been good in underscoring that point for us. The two of them are competitors; they are hard workers. They are setting the tone for everyone else and letting it be known that it isn't acceptable to not be ready every day that you come into practice."

Assistant Coach Mike Rowe echoed the shift in the team's focus by saying, "In the past, we used to know our lineup at the beginning of the season, but this year the gymnasts will always be competing for a spot in the lineup, indeed for their spot on the team. It is nice to know we have this kind of depth because in any event, we could have an injury and there is still someone who can step up to the plate and do the job with a routine that is comparable. The group of freshmen that came in have new life, new blood and new energy. They give every body else a boost. You can hear the girls talk about how refreshing the life and energy and enthusiasm is in the gym. It is very positive."

The following is a look at the 2007 Pitt gymnastics teams:

VAULT

Pitt started off its 2006 season with a solid vault lineup, hitting its peak midseason. As injuries began to pervade the team, new faces emerged in the mix, and the team began to rely on some consistent powerhouses to carry the team.

Arlotta and sophomore Victoria McGugian-Carl were the team's top two vaulters last season and will look to lead the team again in 2007. Arlotta was an all-conference selection, hitting a career-high 9.875 on January 21 against Rhode Island. McGugian-Carl had a career-high 9.825 in the same meet. Panther fans can expect to also see some increased execution from sophomore Anya Chayka as well as big skills from several newcomers.

"The girls we have the on the team are really improving on their vaulting," said Yohman. "We have more difficulty and more depth. Our goal is still to get more, but it is definitely a step up from last year. This is an event where we've constantly asked the gymnasts to step it up. Now they're doing so and getting some help from the newcomers."

UNEVEN BARS

The Panthers lost two of their bar workers to graduation last season but come back with upgraded routines from some of the veterans as well as early contributions from some of the freshmen.

"We graduated two bar workers, but we did a good job replacing the bar routines that we lost," said Yohman. "Our goals are to have more conditioning, more endurance and better lines on bars. We were consistent last year, but we need to get those extra tenths from hitting handstands the way we are supposed to and finishing with big dismounts."

Arlotta leads the way on this event as well, garnering All-EAGL first team honors last season after reaching a season-high mark of 9.825 in two meets. Also returning is junior Samantha DeBone, an all-conference second team selection who reached a career-high 9.825 as well. Gymnasts who have upgraded their routines significantly in the off-season include Alix Croop and Kaitlin Harrison. Also looking to return to the lineup will be junior Brittany Baldwin who was injured last season.

BALANCE BEAM

Not only do the Panthers have several gymnasts returning and competing for a spot in the balance beam lineup, but the newest additions to the team are stepping in with some difficulty and grace that makes the Pitt lineup an exciting one in 2007.

"Beam is going to be very competitive," Yohman said. "Every freshman that is doing beam, does great beam. If you don't stay on the beam, you won't be in our lineup. We have too many kids doing great stuff on beam and a lot of depth and difficulty."

The Panthers have two All-EAGL honorees returning with Arlotta and Chayka. Arlotta had a career-high 9.875 last season while Chayka hit a career-high 9.750 against New Hampshire. Also competitive on this event last year was DeBone who had a team-high score of 9.900 in Pitt's quad meet against SUNY, Maryland and Ohio State.

Still, the Panthers have Garber competing for a spot in the lineup as well as Andrea Konesky who broke into the lineup late last season. Sophomores Pam Bender and Nicole Kujawski will also compete to break into the lineup as well this season.

FLOOR EXERCISE

After a season of injuries, the floor lineup was thin at the conclusion of 2006, but the coaches have brought in a lot of fresh talent while also incorporating more difficulty and unique choreography into the existing routines.

"We've upgraded our floor as well," Yohman said. "Injuries hit us hardest on the floor last year. We finished the season without a full lineup. We have put difficulty back in this event. We have a lot of skill and choreography. Our difficulty has improved and our routines should be exciting to watch. And conditioning will play a huge role here too for those who want to do Pitt floor."

Pitt returns veterans Arlotta and Garber on this event. Both were consistent throughout the season last year as Arlotta garnered all-conference honors and Garber put up a season-high 9.825. McGugian-Carl's powerful tumbling also added to the mix, and Chayka was a frequent competitor in the lineup. Panther fans can expect to see some new faces emerge on this event in 2007 as several of the incoming gymnasts have routines packed with excitement.

ALL-AROUND

Pitt's all-around lineup will also see some new faces in 2007. Croop and McGugian-Carl worked hard over the summer to get all their skills back or upgrade on each event and both are training to compete on all four events. "Alix is a finesse gymnast while Victoria is strong and powerful—we'd like to see both get some time in the lineup as all-arounders," said Yohman.

NEWCOMERS

Dani Bryan joins the team from Germantown, Md. where she was a 2006 Junior National Team member after placing fourth at nationals. She was additionally the runner-up at junior nationals on the vault and floor. "Dani is a terrific performer who really knows how to turn it on in competition," Yohman said. "She will be one of our top all-arounders, but her floor and vault especially will be impressive."

Jessica Byich hails from Nicktown, Pa. where she was a four-time Level 10 regional qualifier. "Jessica is a solid all-arounder with one of those positive attitudes who just loves hard work!" said Yohman. "She is so much fun to watch on beam and floor and is sure to be a crowd pleaser."

Kirsten Dahlberg is a local gymnast from Gibsonia, Pa. She was a three-time junior national competitor and the state champion on the balance beam. "A very elegant gymnast, Kirsten has so many things she is capable of putting in routines that we will have a hard time choosing what to use," Yohman said. "She can make an immediate impact for us on vault and beam."

Shannon McConnell is also from the Pittsburgh area, coming from Allison Park, Pa. She was a Level 10 national qualifier last season. "Shannon has grown up wanting to be a Panther gymnast," said Yohman. "She's talented, yes, but what we like so much is that she's hungry to be a high level competitor. She's very focused, and she works hard on her all-around strengths as well as weaknesses"

Leah Musulin is another local gymnast from Bethel Park, Pa., and last year was a Level 9 national qualifier. "As an uneven bar specialist, Leah has the opportunity and the talent to be our best athlete on that event," Yohman said. "What an awesome routine she'll have if she does what she's capable of doing."

Krista Rubini comes to the Panthers from Newtown, Pa. She was a Level 9 and Level 10 national qualifier, placing seventh at the regional championships last year. "Krista is the unknown, coming off a knee injury, and will be specializing on three events," said Yohman. "She has the potential to help us on each one."

Sarah Thompson of Shokan, N.Y., competed in the 2005 junior national championships and was a three-year Level 10 gymnast. "Also an unknown who's training now at a higher level than in the past, Sarah has all-around talents and potential on all four events," Yohman said. "She could help us out where needed and even end up being a new star for us!"

The freshmen add difficulty to Panther routines, particularly on vault & floor where the squad has been thin. They will also add a lot of very competitive depth on beam, which will play a part in making Pitt more consistent. With this talented group of newcomers and a renewed sense of enthusiasm among the returning gymnasts, the Panthers are looking forward to a productive 2007 season.

"I think we are going to be an underdog and we are going to surprise people," said Assistant Coach Jessica Bartgis. "I've been very impressed in the short time I've been here. I think people are going to say 'Where did Pitt come from?'"

TRAINING CENTER

At almost 12,000 square feet, it is the second-largest training facility in the East Atlantic Gymnastics League and one of the largest in the Northeast Region. There are two complete vaulting set-ups, one of which lands into a resipit and one into foam block. Three sets of uneven bars are being used, including one over a resipit. There is also a single bar over a foam block/resipit and a trench bar system.

Pitt's facility houses five balance beams, complete with mount and dismount areas, plus a low beam, stacked beams and beam dismounts into pits. A full floor exercise includes tumbling pits off the end and a rod floor/tumble trac into a resipit. Next to the resipit is an in-ground trampoline and added features to the facility include space for lockers, bench seating, cardio equipment and music center as well as mirrors and record boards.

The Gymnastics Training Center allows for the equipment to remain in place at all times. It includes new resi and foam pits, allowing for safer training. The gymnasts are able to attempt higher-level skills because they are in a safer environment.

In addition to the difficulty level the gymnasts have been able to train at, the facility has allowed the coaches to recruit higher-level gymnasts. The setup and equipment have been appealing to many top-notch gymnasts because they know they will be able to maintain their current level of difficulty as well as improve.

"We are so fortunate to have one of the finest training facilities around," said Head Coach Debbie Yohman. "We have everything we need to train all levels of gymnastics—from elite student-athletes to young campers. Everyone who sets foot in our training center is impressed. The University of Pittsburgh has made a big commitment to Panther Gymnastics."

Pitt's facility has three sets of uneven bars, including one over a resipit, plus a single bar over a foam block/resipit.

The Gymnastics Training Center houses seven balance beams, with full mount and dismount pits, and a low training beam.

The floor exercise area includes tumbling pits off the end and a rod floor into a foam block pit. Next to the pit is an in-ground trampoline.

As she begins her 21st season with the Panthers, Head Coach Debbie Yohman's career has been filled with record-breaking moments and a program that's changing for the future. Her efforts have been recognized by gaining quality recruits from Olympic-caliber gyms, and a look at the last few years in particular demonstrates why Yohman is leading Pitt gymnastics in the right direction.

In 2000, Yohman coached her team to a second-place finish as they hosted the East Atlantic Gymnastics League (EAGL) Championships. Then in 2004, she watched as Alyse Zeffiro recorded the Panthers' first two perfect 10.0 scores on the vault and floor exercise. Last season, Yohman led 12 gymnasts to the NCAA Regional Championships in Michigan.

An ECAC Coach of the Year, EAGL Coach of the Year and the 2002 Northeast Region Coach of the Year, Yohman has produced numerous decorated athletes over the years. Zeffiro was a 2004 league champion on the vault, Danielle "Freddie" Alba was EAGL balance beam champion, and Samantha Salyers won Uneven Bars both at EAGL & NCAA Regionals.

In addition to having successful competitors, Yohman said one of the major highlights in the last 21 years is the new state of the art training facility.

"The facility affords us all kind of opportunities for training skills of any level—from learning new to refining current skills," said Yohman. "We have become more attractive athletically, and we weren't in the past. We couldn't train girls who wanted to compete. People are now aware of our current facility. We've been able to raise the level of gymnastics and our expectations, and we're getting more looks by higher caliber athletes."

The new facility has aided to the progression of Yohman's program and has attracted national attention, drawing in new recruits from Olympic-caliber gyms. For the 2007 season, Yohman has brought in a number of influential gymnasts. Their hard work and motivation rubs off on the other gymnasts and makes them all work harder. When asked about the Panther newcomers, Yohman talks about the demands that are being put on them and the veterans.

"This past summer was very productive. We needed our girls to come back in the fall and be in stronger, better shape and ready to go," she explained. "If they had new skills they wanted to learn, they had to learn them over the summer because September is our preseason. We had much better conditioning efforts, too"

Yohman is trying to get the team to understand that the level of this program is rising. With co-captains Andrea Arlotta and Jessica Garber leading the team to this higher level, they are setting the tone for everyone else to follow.

Yohman's gymnasts may have achieved many successes in the gym, but they have been equally strong in the classroom. In the last ten years, 45 Panther gymnasts have been named to the EAGL All-Academic team with seven of them being named to the team for four consecutive years. The team has also boasted 32 NACGC/W All-American Scholar Athletes having a grade point average of 3.5 or better.

"With Coach Yohman at the helm, our women's gymnastics team has always had exemplary student-athletes proudly representing the University," said Senior Associate Athletic Director Carol Sprague. "I am thrilled with the completion of a dedicated, state of the art, Women's Gymnastics Training Center in August of 2004. She now has all the tools necessary to guide our team to the upper echelon of the EAGL Conference."

Yohman also has had a long association with successful gymnastics programs as a competitor. During her collegiate career, she was a member of the 1976 national championship team at Clarion University. Additionally, she served as a student assistant for Clarion in 1977, also a national championship season, and then as a graduate assistant at the University of Iowa (1977-79).

Yohman is a current representative and former chair of the Women's Collegiate Program Committee and previously was the NCAA Gymnastics Coaches representative to the Women's Technical Committee (WTC) of USGF. Yohman also served for four years as chairperson of the ECAC Division I Selection Committee. She has served as meet director for Big 8, Big 10, and MAIAW Regional Championships, and is a USAG Elite judge.

"We are now doing the kinds of things as coach you want to do. You want to bring them in and have a place where you can train them to move up the ladder. You don't just coach to coach. You coach because you are competitive and you want to do better. We are doing things now that we weren't able to do in the past. I think we have an excellent staff, and we are having fun seeing this program progress!"

"That is what you coach for—to raise the level of the program. We are doing things now that we weren't able to do in the past."

— Debbie Yohman

- 1977 National Championship Team, Clarion — student assistant
- Two-time AIAW champions

Michael Rowe
Assistant Coach

A member of the 2002 Region Five USAG Coaching Staff of the Year, Michael Rowe joined the Pitt gymnastics staff as an assistant coach for the 2006 season. In his second year with the program, Rowe is the head bar coach, and he also coordinates the recruiting efforts for the staff.

"I think we are definitely heading in the right direction, and I can see changes already, said Rowe. "My event is bars, and JB and I co-coach tumbling; JB can spot a lot of the girls on floor so I'm not running back and forth on the floor. As a staff we are more well-rounded. We call out to each other across the gym to say "Hey check this out!" I think we complement each other really well. It is refreshing and nice."

Originally from Michigan, Rowe has over 20 years of experience in gymnastics instruction and competitive coaching.

While in Michigan, Rowe worked at Geddert's Twistars-USA as a head compulsory coach, optional team coach and choreographer. Rowe was an integral part of the women's coaching staff, qualifying all but one gymnast to the 2005 Junior Olympic National Championships, and he continually produced national champions.

"The club Mike came from is known for the number of gymnasts they annually send to Junior Nationals, as well as the NCAA gymnasts they have produced," Yohman said of Rowe's experience. "He was highly respected throughout Region 5 and learned from the best. His easy rapport with people transitioned well to our gym and on the recruiting circuit. In addition, he brings an added dimension to our program with a background in choreography.

"Mike demands effort from the team, but he is easy to work with. His high energy and outgoing personality keep the gym environment lively but focused."

In addition to coaching at Geddert's, Rowe was a clinician for the Region Five Mini-Congress, Michigan State Congress and various state and region camps. He chaired a National Gymnastics Day initiative to raise money for Children's Miracle Network at Sparrow Hospital in Lansing, Mich.

Rowe is a 1985 graduate of Michigan State University where he was a collegiate cheerleader. Prior to that Rowe was a gymnast at both Western Michigan and in high school. He also danced professionally from 1983-1996, mostly in regional and national tours of musical theatre.

COACHING STAFF

Jessica Bartgis
Assistant Coach

Jessica Bartgis is the newest addition to the gymnastics staff. She joins the Panthers as an assistant coach focusing primarily on the vault. A former collegiate gymnast, she brings several years of experience both as a gymnast and coach.

"We are extremely excited to get a young coach with such a high level of knowledge of collegiate gymnastics," said Head Coach Debbie Yohman. "JB has already shown that she is ready and able to bring her abilities as an elite-level gymnast to the table from the perspective of a coach. She has had great interaction with both the collegiate level gymnasts and the highly competitive age group gymnasts she has worked with. She is anxious to get started and looking forward to throwing herself right into the middle of our recruiting season and our 2006-07 training preparations, and we are excited to work with her."

"Our student-athletes know of her and are also anxious to get started on the new year. She will bring a mix of qualities to the program that will help us as we move to the next level. I expect her to contribute as a coach on every event, with routine construction and choreography as well as with our strength and conditioning. The fun part will be that she's just as eager to be a part of the team as she is to continue learning, and I feel our gymnasts will work just as hard for her as she will for them."

Bartgis' served as a volunteer assistant coach with the West Virginia gymnastics team last season. She helped guide the Mountaineers to a third-place finish at the EAGL Championships and a fifth-place finish at the NCAA Southeast Regional Championships. Bartgis has also spent time coaching in area clubs including Westmoreland Gymnastics in Greensburg and Aerial Port Gymnastics in Fairmont, W.Va.

As a gymnast at West Virginia, Bartgis had an outstanding senior season and ranks third in school history with her high all-around score of 39.625. She was a First Team All-EAGL selection in the all-around and uneven bars in 2005 and a Second Team selection in the all-around and vault in 2004.

A strong vaulter, Bartgis tied for the 2004 EAGL title on the event with teammate Janae Cox and Pitt gymnast Alysse Zeffiro. She additionally achieved perfection with a 10.0 vault against Cornell in 2004. Bartgis was also a three-time EAGL All-Academic and earned NACGC/W All-Academic honors in her final season.

Originally from Frederick, Md., Bartgis was an elite gymnast at MarVa-Teens Gymnastics Club. She earned her B.S. in 2005 from West Virginia in physical education with an emphasis in athletic coaching education. Bartgis will complete her Master's at West Virginia in the same concentration in May 2007.

Robyn Marszalek
Student Assistant Coach

Robyn Marszalek joins the Panthers' staff in 2007 as a student assistant coach after three successful years as a Pitt gymnast. Throughout her career, Marszalek was a two-time All-EAGL selection on the floor exercise and a three-time NACGC/W All-American Scholar-Athlete. This season, she'll bring both leadership and guidance to her former teammates particularly on the floor exercise.

Last season, Marszalek earned all-conference second team honors on the floor exercise, scoring a season-high score of 9.800 against West Virginia and James Madison. She won the event in Pitt's meet against Rhode Island and was ranked in the conference's top 20. Marszalek competed on the floor exercise in eight meets, placing fifth in two of the competitions. At the Missouri Cat Classic, she qualified for finals in that event.

As a sophomore, Marszalek broke into the all-around competition by returning to the vault and floor exercise. She was voted the Most Improved Gymnast by her teammates that season and finished third on the floor exercise at the EAGL Championships while setting a career-high 38.475 in the all-around. She earned her first all-conference nod that season as well and set career-highs of 9.875 on the vault and 9.825 on the floor exercise.

In her first season with the Panthers, Marszalek was a two-event contributor, competing 11 times on the uneven bars and six times on the balance beam. She had season-best scores of 9.8 in both events against West Virginia and James Madison.

Throughout high school, Marszalek was a two-time Level 9 national qualifier and the national uneven bars champion. She also finished fourth on the balance beam and third in the all-around at nationals. She was a Level 10 national qualifier in 2002 and five-time state champion and regional qualifier. She was named MVP of her Carl Sandburg High School team and set school records on the balance beam, uneven bars and all-around. Marszalek was the balance beam conference and regional champion. She trained at Aerial Gymnastics Arena in Illinois for three years under Dan and Beth Miller, as well as Tumbling On USA for seven years.

Marszalek was a three-time EAGL All-Academic Team selection in addition to her NACGC/W accolades. From 2005-07, she is serving on Pitt's Student-Athlete Advisory Committee. Marszalek is a pre-medicine and anthropology major who is pursuing medical school.

EAGL CONFERENCE

The East Atlantic Gymnastics League (EAGL) became a reality on July 31, 1995 when eight prominent universities banded together to form a consortium created solely for the purpose of showcasing women's gymnastics on the East Coast.

Representing four conferences, six states and the District of Columbia while spanning two NCAA regions, the EAGL is comprised of Maryland, North Carolina and North Carolina State of the Atlantic Coast Conference; Pittsburgh, Rutgers and West Virginia of the Big East Conference; New Hampshire of America East and the newest member, George Washington, of the Atlantic 10 Conference.

In August 1996, the NCAA Council accepted the EAGL as an official affiliated member of the NCAA. In 10 seasons, all of the teams have earned NCAA regional berths, and two teams have received a bid to the NCAA Championships. Last season, the EAGL had two gymnasts qualify for the NCAA meet.
